ORGANIZED CONFUSION — That's the best way to describe the first day of school in Miami Trace and Washington City School districts, Tuesday. While teachers were sorting out their students, as Mrs. Lee Mossbarger, second grade teacher at Eastside Elementary School, right photo, is doing, school officials were preparing for the volumes of paper work that accompanies the opening day. Miami Trace School District reported an initial enrollment of 3,651 students. No enrollment figures were available for the Washington City School District. Miami Trace officials reported an overflow of 7th graders at Eber and crowded conditions at the Olive School 6th grade and New Holland 3rd grade. The third and fourth grades at Wayne School were also reported as overcrowded. Many Miami Trace School District Board meetings were spent plotting and planning strategies which would alleviate the overcrowding, but opening day made it evident some additional time would have to be expended revising the plans. As for the students, many were excited to be with all their friends in the hallowed halls of learning once again and the smell of paste and fresh notebook paper was a welcome sensation. Others sat in class today with puz- zled facial expressions as they attempted to remember where the summer went. School officials said that overall they were pleased with the way the first day had gone.

Elderly man dies following freak automobile accident

An 88-year-old Jeffersonville man died of injuries received when he was struck by a car at 2:30 p.m. Saturday. Fayette County Sheriff's Deputy David L. Souther reported his investigation showed a car driven by Darla J. Donohoe, 18, S. Solon, traveled out of control while turning left off Ohio 734 onto Ohio 41 in Jeffersonville. Two-year-old Albert D. Bobbitt, S. Solon, reportedly slid off the car seat and onto the floor atop Ms. Donohoe's right foot and the accelerator pedal. The auto went left of center, striking Leo Wright and his parked auto beside which he was standing.

Wright was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital by ambulance and then transferred to University Hospital in Columbus. Officials there reported he arrived at 4 p.m. and was pronounced dead in the University Hospital emergency room at 4:38 p.m. A charge of driving left of center is expected to be levied against Ms. Donohoe.

Wright, who resided in Jeffersonville all his life, was a retired farmer, a member of the Jeffersonville United Methodist Church and a 50-year member of Sunflower Lodge 541 of the Knights of Pythias. He was proceeded in death in 1965 by his wife, Bertha Underwood Wright and daughter, Martha. Wright is survived by two sons, Lt. Col. Harold B. Wright of the United States Air Force, who resides in Colorado Springs, Col. and J. Roger Wright of Columbus; six grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Services are slated for 1:30 p.m. Wednesday at Morrow-Huffman Funeral Home in Jeffersonville with the Rev. J. Eugene Griffith of the Jeffersonville United Methodist Church officiating. The Knights of Pythias service will be held at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday. Burial will be at Fairview Cemetery in Jeffersonville. Friends may call at anytime.

DEPUTIES REPORTED one additional holiday weekend mishap and the Washington C.H. Police Department investigated three traffic mishaps.

A car driven by Lucille Wilson, 53, Jeffersonville, backed into a parked car belonging to Henry S. Kersey, Jamestown, at 5:45 p.m. Friday on private property in Jefferson Township. Deputies estimated damage as minor.

A car driven by Leah L. Bott, 17, Williamsport, ran off Kennedy Avenue onto the road shoulder at 4:48 p.m. Monday where she struck a car belonging to Gary L. McCoy, Jonesboro, Ga., parked in front of 107 Kennedy Ave. Washington C.H. police estimated severe damage to the Bott auto and moderate damage to the McCoy car.

A pickup truck driven by Manford E. Mootspaw, 38, Sabina and a car driven by Edward L. Garin, 43, of 1025 Dayton Ave., collided at 8:30 p.m. Saturday at the intersection of Clinton Avenue and Draper Street. Mootspaw was charged by city police for failure to yield right of way.

Cars driven by Brenda S. Hughes, 23, Miami Trace Road and Isabelle E. Raypole, 68, of 1032 E. Paint St., collided in the Hidy Foods parking lot on Columbus Avenue at 11:15 a.m. Saturday. Police reported moderate damage to the Hughes auto.

Stolen weapons to IRA?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Pentagon study says enough weapons, ammunition and explosives disappeared from U.S. military bases around the world between 1971 and 1974 to outfit approximately 8,000 men.

The report also raised the possibility that the outlawed Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army and other terrorist groups may have received some of the stolen materials.

The report, conducted by the Army Physical Security Review Board and released Monday by Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., said approximately 6,800 weapons and 1.2 million rounds of small arms ammunition or explosives were lost.

"These losses would equip approximately 10 combat battalions with a basic load of small arms and munitions," according to the report, which was turned over to then-Army Secretary Howard H. Callaway on March 10.

The report charged a confidential Naval Intelligence Service source alleged that military weapons had been stolen from Camp Lejeune, N.C., and shipped to the Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army.

The report also said one IRA contact allegedly was operating in the Ft. Bragg, N.C., area and the IRA reportedly was trying to recruit U.S. Marines "who will qualify with machineguns or communications equipment."

MD Telethon sets record; local contributions down

The finale of the Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon Against Muscular Dystrophy saw two million dollars raised in the closing hour, bringing the final national toteboard figure to an excess of $18.8 million pledged. This sum is an all-time record, exceeding by nearly three million the $16.1 million pledged during Telethon '74.

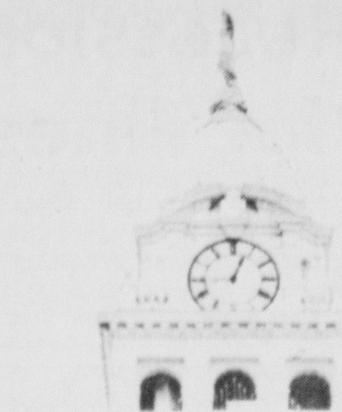

The Jerry Lewis Telethon, which originated in Las Vegas, was seen in the Washington C.H. area over WTVN-TV, Channel 6, Columbus. Ms. Sandy Fackler, Telethon chairman for the Fayette County area reported that local contributions totaled $2,327. This was down $1,549 from the previous year's Telethon. An additional $277.41 was deposited in the fishbowl outside the Landmark Building, 319 S. Fayette St., telethon headquarters for this area.

Manning the pledge phones were members of the Jaycee-ettes, along with the many other volunteers.

Speaking from Las Vegas at the close of the network Telethon, Jerry Lewis said, "I can't believe it — but it's true. This proves something beautiful and powerful to me. When we get together, as we've done here, we're reaching for the things that miracles are made of. I'm surer than ever now that we're close to finding a cure for muscular dystrophy. Thanks and thanks again to you who joined me in this labor of love on Labor Day."

Israeli approval expected

Mideast accord reached

JERUSALEM (AP) — The new Israeli-Egyptian agreement for a second Israeli withdrawal in the Sinai Desert went before Israel's political parties today for its test.

The Knesset, Israel's parliament, was expected to take up the agreement Wednesday after the parties determined their positions. Statements from political leaders before conclusion of the negotiations indicated it would be approved by a narrow majority.

Meanwhile, the Ford administration opened a campaign to win approval of the agreement by the U.S. Congress.

This is needed because the pact provides for the stationing of some 200 American civilians at electronic surveillance stations between the two armies.

President Ford said if the agreement collapsed because Congress refused to authorize the American presence, the result would be "turmoil, increased tension and obviously a greater chance for war."

Although Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield and some other influential members oppose the American involvement, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has said he expects congressional approval.

In addition to the Israeli troop withdrawal and return of the Abu Rudeis oilfields to Egypt, the pact commits the two longtime enemies to refrain from the "threat or use of force" against each other. Kissinger said he hoped "the implementation of this agreement and the documents that we have initiated today will be remembered as that point where peace at last began in the Middle East."

Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin admitted that there were risks for Israel in the accord. But he said these had to be taken to move toward peace, and the agreement could "open a new chapter in relations" with Egypt and in the Middle East.

"I think the agreement ... marks a turning point in the Arab-Israeli conflict," President Anwar Sadat said at the ceremony in Alexandria.

President Ford telephoned Kissinger and Rabin in Jerusalem and Sadat in Egypt.

"You can count on us to continue to stand with you," he told the Israeli leader. "You can rest assured that we will work with you to make sure that the agreement is carried out, not only in spirit but in letter."

"We will not tolerate stagnation or stalemate," Ford told the Egyptian president. "You have my assurance that we will keep the momentum going."

Ford congratulated Kissinger on a "great achievement, certainly one of the most historic of this decade if not the century."

Sadat came in for immediate criticism from two Arab countries.

Solons oppose U.S. involvement in plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The provision in the Middle East peace plan that up to 200 U.S. technicians monitor the Sinai truce is meeting some opposition from members of Congress who are concerned that any American involvement there might lead to another Vietnam.

President Ford, in telephone conversations Monday with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and the leaders of Israel and Egypt, called the interim Israeli-Egyptian accord a "historic" event and a "constructive contribution" to peace.

Kissinger told Ford there will be serious "economic and military consequences" if Congress fails to approve the assignment of U.S. technicians to the Sinai. Ford replied that he was certain Congress will go along with the plan because the accord "is not only great for both countries but for the world as a whole."

Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger, meanwhile, told a news conference that the use of the technicians was "an acceptable risk" but "I cannot say they are immune from danger."

But Ford and his two Cabinet officers sought to allay any concern the presence of U.S. technicians to operate surveillance equipment in the Sinai could lead to U.S. military involvement in the area.

Congress is expected to scrutinize the technicians' role and also a thus-far unpublished "memorandum of agreement" calling for U.S. aid to both Israel and Egypt.

Ford, talking with reporters after his telephone calls, denied speculation that American economic and military aid for Israel will total $3.1 billion this year. "Our aid will be significant, but I would not want to comment on a dollar figure," he said.

The truce agreement commits American civilian technicians indefinitely to the region but they can be withdrawn if they are in danger or if "continuation of their role is no longer necessary."

Recruited from private industry — many of them expected to be former CIA men — the U.S. technicians would operate an early warning system in the strategic Mitla and Gidi mountain passes. Armed with electronic gadgetry and small arms, they would report any military movement to Egypt, Israel, the U.N. Emergency Force and the United States, to prevent any surprise offensive from either side.

The Americans are to run three electronic stations of their own, maintain three unmanned "sensor fields" at both ends of each pass and keep track of an Israeli and an Egyptian surveillance station.

As details of the Sinai pact became known during the last week, some members of Congress expressed concern such U.S. involvement might lead to an enlarged and military participation by the United States.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield opposed any U.S. role in the Sinai on the grounds it could lead to more U.S. activity there. "As far as I'm concerned, one Vietnam is one Vietnam too many," he said.

Rep. Larry Pressler, R-S.D., also opposed the technicians' role, saying it follows the pattern of U.S. involvement in Vietnam. He said the observers should be from the United Nations.

One group member was awarded a service plaque. Senior Citizens from an eight county area participated in the program.

Edna Naylor, group director, announced Pearl Stoughton was awarded a plaque for her volunteer services rendered to the senior nutrition group. Mrs. Stoughton, who resides with her husband, Harry, in Fayette County and who will turn 80 years-of-age March 9, has a list of service credits a mile long, including chairwoman of the Site Advisory Council, one of four delegates from Fayette County on the Central Ohio Agency on Aging Advisory Council, work with the nutrition organization involving spearheading quilting projects, planning and caring for two of the city flower boxes, acting as treasurer of the Senior Citizens Building Fund and transporting other senior citizens to the noon meals at First Presbyterian Church everyday. Her volunteer time with the group totaled 1,000 hours last year.

Mrs. Stoughton admits that if it weren't for all the activities of the nutrition group she would probably have withered away from boredom after she and her husband moved here from Centerburg two years ago. "I'm an active person, and I enjoy helping people in any way I can," she said.

Ohio is expected to have dry weather through Wednesday, but another cold front is headed for the state. The front is being pushed along by another fair weather high pressure system.

For the first time in five days, there was no rain overnight. Some fog did appear, but did not blanket the state. Cloudiness was expected to appear as the front moves through, but considerable sunshine was predicted for Ohio today, particularly in the southern counties.

Somewhat warmer temperatures were forecast today, climbing into the upper 70s and the mid 80s.

Under the influence of the high pressure tonight, skies should clear with lows in the upper 50s to the mid 60s. Wednesday will bring a lot of sunshine with highs in the 80s.

A chance of showers Thursday and Friday. Fair Saturday. Highs in the upper 70s and the 80s. Lows in the upper 50s and the 60s.

Burial was under the direction of the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, Circleville, Ohio on Rt. 22.

Recession blamed for illness, crime

CHICAGO (AP) — More mental illness, more physical illness and more crime grow out of economic recession, says group of social scientists.

And they said the cost of these consequences is greater than would be the cost of programs to create jobs.

Government officials look only at the direct economic impact of unemployment, they told the annual convention of the American Psychological Association on Labor Day.

They said that not only do thefts, robberies and burglaries rise, but so do the rates of suicide, murder of infants, admission to mental hospitals and illness and death from heart and other diseases.

There frequently is a lag of one, two or three years in some of these rates, but already the impact of unemployment is apparent in some of these areas, they added.

Dr. Hannah Levin, professor of psychology at Richmond College, City University of New York, Staten Island; and Dr. Ralph A. Straetz of New York University, a political scientist, studied 45 unemployed men and their families in Brooklyn and Staten Island.

"A most tragic part of each interview," Dr. Levin said, was that 90 per cent of the men blamed themselves for being unemployed and felt despair about their future.

She said the children, too, felt the stress of their father's unemployment and expressed the fear they might have to be given away.

She said, "Physicians prescribe milk and vitamins for children who suffer malnutrition" so "it is time psychiatrists and psychologists include the prescription of work as a way to a more meaningful and satisfying life."

"And just as the government has begun to assume some responsibility for feeding the poor with food stamps, it must become national policy to provide full employment for all our citizens who wish to work."

Dr. M. Harvey Brenner of the Johns Hopkins University school of hygiene and public health said community mental health centers already are recording more admissions and have longer waiting lists as a result of economic instability.

It is likely that more serious forms of mental disorder will arise later, based on studies of previous economic crisis, he said.

And he traced rises in crime, illness and death from physical disorders which have been associated with past periods of unemployment, saying that these, too, will be intensified over time.

Ex-mayor Frank Zeidler in running for president time, we can promote our ideas more effectively."

Zeidler, a self-employed public administration consultant, was mayor from 1948 to 1960. He said the party has about 500 members, about 80 of whom attended the three-day convention.

Thomas, who died in 1968, ran for president six times between 1928 and 1948. Debs, a union leader, ran five times, starting in 1900.

Darlington Hoopes, a Pennsylvania legislator, was the party's last presidential nominee, making the second of two races in 1956.

Thomas' best showing was in 1932 when he received more than 800,000 votes. He got only 95,000 in his final campaign as factionalism deteriorated the party's strength.

Zeidler foresees "a front porch campaign in its modern version, which is using the media of communication rather than to travel a lot. I am not a man of independent means."

He said the reorganized party's goals include improving harmony among ethnic groups, controlling the allocation of energy and giving workers more voice in industrial decision-making.

In St. Louis on Sunday, the People's party nominated Margaret Wright, 52, a civil rights activist from Los Angeles, as its presidential candidate and Maggie Kuhn, 70, of Philadelphia as her running mate.

The decline in May had been six percent.

Prices on nine items declined during August, two items milk and peanut butter held steady, and costs rose on the other five items.

All meat prices were down from Aug. 1. Hamburger dropped ten per cent, chuck roast 8.5 per cent, chicken .03 per cent and pork chops 11.7 per cent.

Among cities checked, prices declined in nine and rose in three. Largest decline was at Columbus, down from $19.19 on August 1, to $18.05 on Sept. 1. Biggest increase was at Steubenville where prices rose 73 cents from $17.31 to $18.04.

Prices declined in other cities as follows: Akron from $18.67 to $18.03; Cleveland from $17.87 to $17.48; Conneaut from $17.82 to $16.97; Fremont from $16.76 to $15.85; Portsmouth from $18.59 to $18.41; Chillicothe from $18.62 to $18.05, and Van Wert from $17.05 to $16.97.

Increases also were noted in Athens, up from $18.70 to $18.84, and Youngstown, from $18.74 to $19.08.

Biggest increase by percentage was in 14.5 ounce packages of chocolate chip cookies, up an average of 14 per cent.

On individual items, prices were up 7 per cent on eggs; nine per cent on sugar, 0.8 per cent on coffee, 4 per cent on detergent.

Price declines, aside from meat, showed up in margarine, toilet tissue, bread, potatoes and orange juice.

Scattered through the shopping list and the cities shopped are 48 spots where stores held prices on Sept. 1 to what they were on Aug. 1.

Coincidentally, price increases were noted 48 times in the list.

Too many 'freebies' at State Fair?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Some 2,281,987 persons attended the 1975 Ohio State, but the record breaking attendance was clouded by the exposition manager's charge that too many were admitted on free passes.

Manager John Evans claimed that nearly half of those attending the fair this year were admitted free.

"That's too many freebies," he said.

The final breakdown for the 12-day exposition totaled 1,197,065 paid and 1,084,951 free admissions, according to Tom Rizzo, public relations director.

Evans threatened to resign if the state fair commission does not change its policy immediately.

Rizzo said the majority of free admissions represented junior fair members, fairground employees, members of the news media and children aged 12 and under who were admitted without charge before noon each weekday.

Rizzo credited the free grandstand entertainment and good weather for the success of the fair.

Total attendance on Monday was 124,513, including some 30,000 who packed the grandstand to hear the Osmonds.

The old record was set in 1973 when 2,223,589 attended the fair.

Reigning over Monday's closing activities was Ohio State Fair Queen Rebecca Lawrence, 20, of Marion. Miss Lawrence, a nursing student, was Ohio Apple Queen before assuming her new title.

In honor of Labor Day, Monday was designated Labor and Industry Day. Highlights included a cupcake eating contest, a top teen seamstress style show, and animal shows including quarterhorses, open class Ayershire, Brown Swiss cows and adult sheep showmanship.

Filth in baby food

If there is one thing all of us could agree on, surely it would be that baby food ought to be a model of purity and healthfulness. This makes all the more disquieting the Consumers' Union report that contaminants were found in many of the 39 commercial baby foods it tested. These contaminants, according to the report, included rodent hairs, paint chips and insect parts. Moreover, it appears that the situation is getting worse instead of better: filth was found in about 10 per cent of samples tested in 1972, says the Consumers' Union, but in some 25 per cent of those more recently tested.

This should not be taken as a blanket condemnation of all commercial baby foods. The findings do reinforce the consumer group's conclusion that the Food and Drug Administration should take action to eliminate the practices which lead to such contamination.

WASHINGTON CALLING... By Marquis Childs

New York City's money blues

NEW YORK — If New York is not America, as was once so loftily proclaimed, it is not alone. The city's desperate plight resembles that of almost every metropolis in the country except that here the deterioration has gone further and threatens disaster.

The root cause is the welfare load. And that grew primarily out of the migration from the South and from Puerto Rico, swelling the ghettos to completely unmanageable proportions. For this influx of poor families, quite unequipped for urban life in the North, the federal government took no responsibility whatsoever.

Today New York City's various agencies are beating a path to Washington and knocking on every door in the hope of federal help. They make a goodcase. Out of local taxes the city must raise 25 per cent of the welfare cost, about $1 billion. And welfare cost is increasing day by day as unemployment climbs to record levels.

One proposal is for a 75 per cent federal uniform standard of reimbursement for the cities for all public help including Medicaid. This would mean $3 billion coming to New York as against the current $2 billion and while half of the windfall would go to the state, the city argues that in view of the fearful condition of all the cities in the state Gov. Hugh Carey and the state legislature should forego part of the federal money.

But this is an academic discussion. The logic of the situation powerfully supports the case made by the cities, with New York in the forefront. Since nothing was done to cushion the immigration of so many millions of rootless people, the federal government has a duty to ease the burden that, through no fault of their own, they have put on every facility from housing to energy.

There is, however, no indication that the no-sayers in the nation's capital have any intention of yielding to the pitiful petitions from the bankrupt city. Nor is there much more hope from Congress, where a deep-seated prejudice with a coloration of racism and even xenophobia works against the largest metropolis.

It is not hard to imagine the following happening: With sufficient pressure from around the country, the Congress might grant some form of relief. After all, the big-city states add up to a formidable bloc of votes.

It should not be forgotten that in his first term Richard Nixon came out with a proposed negative income tax that would put virtually the entire burden of those living below the poverty line on the federal government.

But it is quite conceivable that President Ford would veto any measure of relief that went over the line he has set for the federal deficit.

That deficit which the White House puts at $60 billion, surely an optimistic underestimate, is a stern reality.

A sad commentary on the plight of the cities is the abysmal level of competence or, rather incompetence, in metropolitan government. The best that can be said for Mayor Abraham Beame is that he is trying to find a way out of the fiscal impasse after having pushed the whole mess under the rug.

Confronted with the refusal of municipal employee unions to accept a wage freeze, he called on Richard R. Shinn, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., one of the greatest aggregates of capital in the nation, to head a management survey of city departments.

The Municipal Assistance Corporation, dubbed Big MAC, a top level group working with the banks, is scraping the bottom of every barrel to try to put together sufficient funds to prevent default on nearly $800 million of city notes, meanwhile testing the water by sounding out the reaction among buyers to the city's bonds. It is a race against time with the outcome still very much in doubt.

The race is not alone in the financial department. With drastic cutbacks in police, firemen and sanitation workers, crime and filth are a growing threat. While the worst of the litter growing out of the sanitation strike has been picked up, the streets are still in disarray.

Walking in Central Park at night is a sure invitation to a mugging or worse and by day it has its hazards. This is the sorry state of a great city that was once the proud gateway to America.

WIND POWER testing scheduled

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — A windmill that will generate electricity and help scientists study how cheaply they can harness wind power is being readied at the Lewis Research Center here.

The agency of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration says the million-dollar windmill should be operating in two weeks. The experimental windmill is designed* to produce 100 kilowatts of electricity, enough to provide power to 30 houses.

Although that is a modest output, Lewis scientists say the project will help determine if electricity can be generated by wind power with a capital investment of about $1,000 a kilowatt. This would make the windmill competitive with conventional power plants.

Of course, for the windmill to work it must have sufficient wind to drive it. The scientists at Lewis are also collecting data on wind speeds in various parts of the nation.

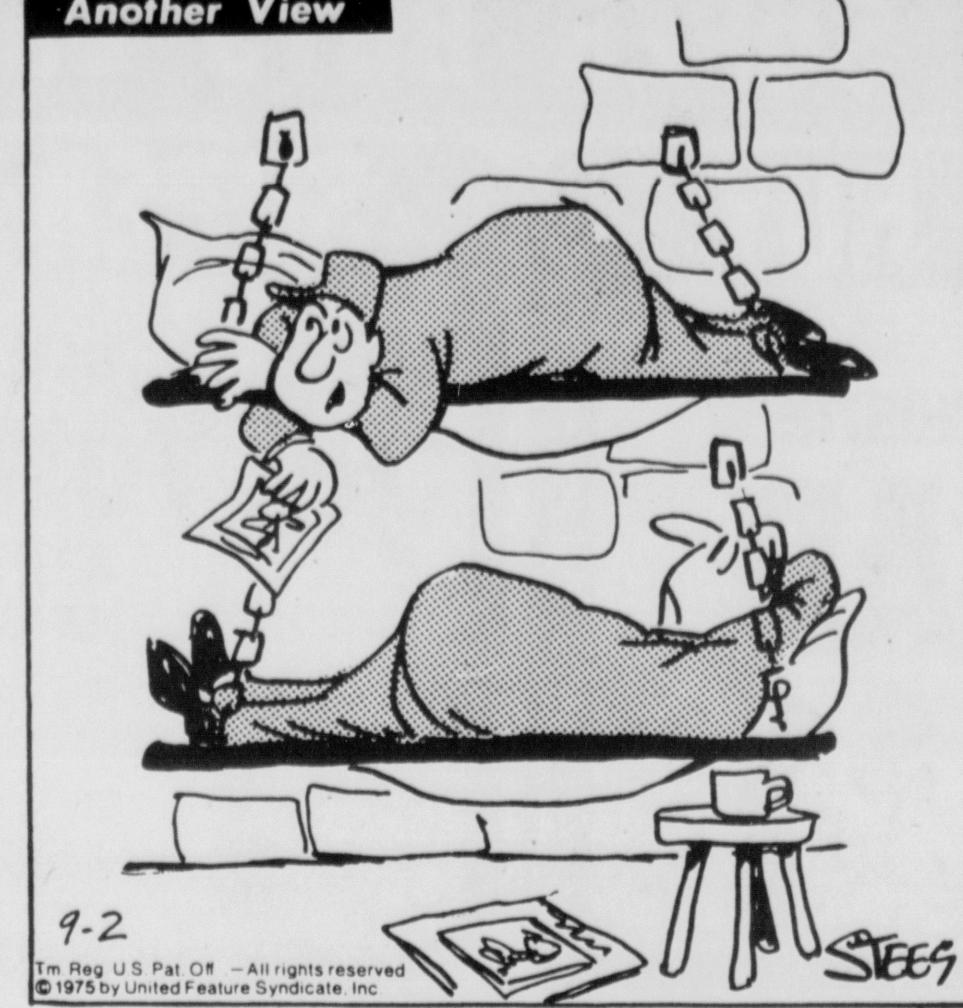

Their results may challenge some national myths about which city is the windiest.

National Wildlife magazine in its current issue says Cleveland has stronger average winds than Chicago, the so-called "Windy City." Cleveland has average wind speeds of 11.6 miles an hour while Chicago has 11.2.

The magazine says the windiest city in the country is Fargo, N.D., with an average of 14.4; followed by Wichita, Kan., 13.7; Boston, 13.3 and New York City, 12.9.

The magazine also says that the Lewis project is the only sizeable effort toward wind generation of electricity that has been funded by the government.

Ohioan advance woman

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Whether it's packing at a moment's notice for a whirlwind trip to Europe or climbing aboard the presidential jet for a trip to her hometown of Cincinnati, it's all the same to Jeanne Quinlan.

She's a member of President Ford's advance staff.

"I think this last trip to Helsinki was the roughest trip I've ever made," she said in a telephone interview. "That's because the summit meeting was touch-and-go until the last minute. We had to leave for Europe on really short notice."

Mrs. Quinlan had just returned from Helsinki and was packing for the next day's trip to Vail, Colo.

The Cincinnati native is secretary to the director of the White House advance office.

"We set up all the details of a trip, whether it's international or domestic," she said. "We meet with the representatives of the press on communications systems and the representatives of the host country on security details."

"Our goal is to schedule the President's every movement. When you're talking about moving the President of the United States, it's a tremendous undertaking."

The advance staff consists of five full-time employees whose jobs totally revolve around the President's schedule.

"I usually don't go on domestic trips," said Mrs. Quinlan, who has been on her job a little more than a year. "But, the Helsinki summit was my third international trip."

"One of the things I've found was that Communist countries are almost more hyper about the President's safety than we are. The expense and detail they go to are unbelievable."

"Most of the countries are so thrilled to have the President there we've no problems with setting up schedules."

NEW YORK (AP) — We went to see the invisible man the other day. He already was fading when we met, but only because he was tired, having taken the red-eye flight from Los Angeles that morning.

Still, actor David McCallum had enough presence left to chat about his new NBC series, "The Invisible Man," before taking his wife and their two kids off for a Labor Day weekend vacation.

The chat was at times unsettling as the short, blond Scot discussed the technical process of portraying an invisible man everyone expects to see on their television screens this fall.

One lived in constant fear a stranger would barge in just as he was saying, "I put the hands on the other day. I picked them off the table and put them on."

No way you could escape the men with the nets if the stranger told them McCallum said, "You'd see me with the mask on, but I'd be invisible from the sternum down."

One felt that McCallum, who has a gently sardonic sense of humor, would try to demonstrate his thesis as they led him away. He seemed to get a tremendous kick discussing invisibility with a straight face.

His series is based on, but bears little resemblance to, the title character in H.G. Wells' novel about a mad scientist who learns how to make himself invisible and sets out to rule the world.

He said, yes, he'd seen the famous 1933 movie version of "The Invisible Man," but his memory of it was hazy.

For TV, McCallum plays a good-guy scientist who learns the vanishing trick while working for a think-tank. Alas, his back-to-normal potion doesn't work and he remains a noshow.

He said the pilot of his series will air next Monday, but should be viewed with the knowledge there'll be a change in direction later.

"There was going to be an emphasis on the fact I desperately wanted to be visible again," said McCallum, who first achieved high visibility 11 years ago as the costar of "The Man from U.N.C.L.E."

The desperation is in the first show, but at NBC's request he won't be so anxious in the succeeding episodes. In fact, he'll have a lot more fun performing various feats of see-through derring-do.

"He's ostensibly still looking for the cure," McCallum grinned, "but we haven't done too much looking lately."

Urge home heat cuts to save gas

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Homeowners have been urged to turn their heat down this winter to save vital natural gas for industrial users who face curtailments estimated as high as 80 per cent.

Peter L. Susey of the Ohio Energy Emergency Commission, said fuel conservation in all sectors would be "a major force in minimizing an adverse impact" on industry.

"The residential sector offers a substantial conservation potential," Susey told the Joint Select Committee on Energy. "We believe that reductions in the residential consumption of natural gas of 15 per cent are readily achievable."

He warned that cutbacks of 60 to 65 per cent as forecast by Columbia Gas of Ohio, a major supplier, "will result in a reduction of 20 per cent in production and work force from full capacity."

"A supply reduction of 70 per cent (to industry) could result in disastrous consequences such as whole plant shutdowns," Susey added.

The energy official said the commission's analyses indicated Columbia would have to institute curtailments ranging from 60 to 80 per cent. Dayton

Power and Light will have to reduce supply by 50 to 60 per cent and East Ohio 18 to 25 per cent, he said.

Rep. Thomas J. Carney, D-71 Youngstown, said a significant impact could be made through conservation if everyone would turn their thermostats back to 68 degrees."

Susey said the state had little authority to require homeowners and apartment dwellers to conserve gas.

"Our actions in the residential sector are indirect," he said, "and tend to focus on the distribution of information and the creation of public awareness to the natural gas problem."

Retiree keeps busy building 'dog homes'

FAIRFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Since he retired from his job as a pressroom supervisor at Fisher Body in 1974, David Breiner has literally been in the doghouse.

Except he would refer to it as a "home for dogs."

"Doctors, lawyers, businessmen, all kind of people come to buy my doghouses," said Breiner, who has been building doghouses to pass the time and make some money since his retirement. "I usually have 25 or 30 of them on display at one time."

The array of model homes are displayed around his front yard and prices range from $49 for the average doghouse to a delux $150 model, which he built with a special Saint Bernard in mind.

"These aren't just ordinary doghouses," he explained. "These are dog homes. For example, I put carpeting and insulation in them. I also use steel-galvanized walls and floors and styrofoam in between them."

"You know how it is. Certain people like different things so this one's got colored shingles, a double paint job and a specific roof slant. Now all I have to do is put the eagle on the front."

Breiner admits he wondered what he would do when he retired from his job. Then, in November, 1974, his brother-in-law from Kentucky called and asked for his help in building a doghouse for the family pooch.

Breiner enjoyed the job so much that he started hammering out doghouses and displaying them in his yard.

Lately, Breiner has started to diversify.

Houses for rats, ducks and raccoons are fast becoming popular items in his line.

"Cats like doorson their houses," he explained. "Ducks take a screen bottom on their's."

Breiner's most unusual request was for branches to be inserted in a raccoon house. That way, the raccoon would have something to rest on.

What's next for the animal architect. An elephant house? A giraffe ranch.

"No, I think I'll stick to smaller things," he concluded. "It's just a hobby and I love it. After 30 years of employment, I deserve it."

Eight lives claimed in weekend crashes

By The Associated Press
Ohio drivers proved the safety experts wrong.

The Ohio Highway Patrol reported today that eight were killed on the state's highways over the Labor Day weekend, less than half the number that had been forecast.

Safety experts had predicted that 19 would die over the 78-hour weekend period, which ended at midnight Monday. Last year 13 died over the Labor Day weekend.

In contrast with the Labor Day toll, this summer's two other holiday weekends (Memorial Day and Independence Day) claimed 27 and 17 lives respectively.

Shark meat sales spurt as result of grisly movie

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The movie "Jaws" might be an anathema to some seashore resort operators, but Preston Battistella figures it's going to give his business a shot in the arm.

The New Orleans seafood vendor says he sold about 150,000 pounds of shark meat last year, but he expects sales of some 300,000 pounds this year, partly because "Jaws" has caught the public fancy.

Most of Battistella's shark meat comes from sand and dog sharks brought by Gulf fishermen, who threw the 4-to 6-foot fish away a few short years ago.

"People are shark conscious now," Battistella said Monday. "In some areas, the movie has stimulated sales. In other areas, it has hurt."

"It's a matter of educating the public that you can't always eat the high-priced fish. You can't ignore the ground meat of the seafood industry."

Battistella will supply 25,000 pounds

Coal strike remains in effect

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — While coal miners in fringe areas of a seven-state wildcat walkout appeared likely to return to work today, hard-core southern West Virginia strikers remained firm.

Miners failed to report for the 12:01 a.m. shift, according to a random Associated Press check of West Virginia mines.

"Nobody at all showed up," said a spokesman at Island Creek Coal Co.'s Amherstdale mine in Logan County.

"They're not working here; those pickets got them," said a Boone County foreman.

A continuation of the strike today means the national United Mine Workers union would be fined $500,000. U.S. District Judge K.K. Hall scheduled a hearing this morning to determine if the union must pay the civil contempt fine to coal companies.

"Most of the country is out," Boone County miner Bruce Miller told a Whitesville Labor Day rally. "If we hold this together, they're going to stay out."

But despite weekend solidarity votes

Boone, Logan, Kanawha and Raleigh

counties of West Virginia, where the strike blossomed more than three weeks ago, the togetherness fell apart in other areas as miners voted to return to work at the 12:01 a.m. shift today.

Before the Labor Day weekend, the strike had idled 80,000 of the nation's 125,000 soft coal miners. More than half that number were in West Virginia, where the entire state except for the Northern Panhandle was striking.

Other walkouts, some only peripherally related to the West

Virginia dispute, idled miners in Illinois, Indiana, Pennsylvania,

Kentucky, Virginia and Alabama.

The dispute began earlier this month when two Logan County miners were suspended and their co-workers struck to protest the slow grievance procedure to give them a hearing. The protest expanded to cover other areas of dissatisfaction with the 1974 contract, concentrating in southern West Virginia on the contract's lack of a right-to-strike clause.

Although most mines are normally closed for the holiday weekend, work resumed in the southern Indiana coalfields Sunday and Monday, mine spokesmen said.

"I'm not sure anybody knew what it was even about," said a foreman at Armax Coal Co.'s Chinook mine.

And neighboring Illinois miners, whose pickets had spread into Indiana last week, voted over the weekend to return to work today. UMW District 12 President Kenneth Dawes faced a morning federal court hearing on civil contempt fines.

John Guzek, UMW District 6 president in Ohio, predicted Monday that all three Meigs County mines closed over a safety dispute last week would be working today.

Other officials in southwestern Virginia, eastern Kentucky and western Pennsylvania also expected miners to be working today. However,

Teachers strike
Vo-Ed school

MILAN, Ohio (AP) — Teachers struck the Ehoce Joint Vocational School in a contract dispute today. The school, which serves 960 students in Erie, Huron and part of Ottawa county, has a staff of 65.

School officials said none of the teachers reported for classes, and that picket lines were posted in front of the building.

A spokesman for the teachers said eight issues are involved in the dispute, the main one being wages.

Shark meat sales spurt as result of grisly movie

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The movie "Jaws" might be an anathema to some seashore resort operators, but Preston Battistella figures it's going to give his business a shot in the arm.

The New Orleans seafood vendor says he sold about 150,000 pounds of shark meat last year, but he expects sales of some 300,000 pounds this year, partly because "Jaws" has caught the public fancy.

Most of Battistella's shark meat comes from sand and dog sharks brought in by Gulf fishermen, who threw the 4-to 6-foot fish away a few short years ago.

"People are shark conscious now," Battistella said Monday. "In some areas, the movie has stimulated sales. In other areas, it has hurt."

"It's a matter of educating the public that you can't always eat the high-priced fish. You can't ignore the ground meat of the seafood industry."

Battistella will supply 25,000 pounds of breaded shark filets to New Orleans public schools for their lunch programs this year. They have used shark before as a base for gumbo.

He has shipped shark meat as far as Ohio, and he is trying to develop a market for shark skin. A shark's skin is like leather when it's dried, and it can be turned into belts and shoes.

There are no bones — a shark's hulk is built around cartilage, even the jaws, Battistella said. And shark meat is cheap — 75 cents a pound for filets, compared with $1.75 for trout or redfish.

Battistella thinks shark filet has a taste similar to catfish or redfish.

He sends 10 to 15 pounds of dorsal fins — the one that sticks out of the water — to Gunter Preuss' Versailles Restaurant here each week as the base ingredient for shark's fin soup, considered a delicacy in the Orient.

Preuss compares the taste to that of a clear turtle soup.

Sen. Jackson blasts GOP

BARBERTON, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.) Monday said that "bread and butter" issues will help the Democrats regain the White House next year.

Speaking to a Labor Day crowd here, the senator said the biggest issue still facing the nation is the high unemployment rate.

"There are nine million plus Americans who have no jobs to go back to Tuesday," Jackson said. "To those who are unable to go back to work, this is not a holiday, this is a catastrophe." Jackson also criticized the latest Russian-U.S. wheat deal and the decontrolling of oil prices.

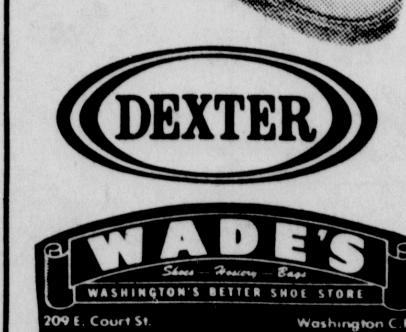

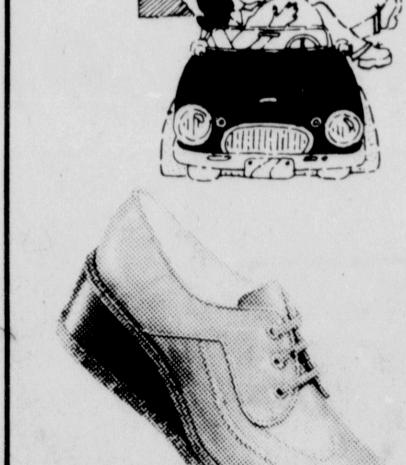

He charged that the wheat deal will cost American consumers $2 billion and will result in higher food prices.

Slate workshop on backpacking

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A backpacking workshop will be conducted by the Department of Natural Resources on Sept. 19-21 at the Shawnee Environmental Resource Center in Scioto County.

Workshop participants will attend sessions on equipment selection, trip planning, wilderness survival and hiking techniques, and take a hike along a five-mile portion of the Shawnee Backpack Trail.

U.S. issues own economic plan

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States has countered Third World demands for a new international economic order with a plan for a variety of new development programs to aid poor countries.

At the same time, the United States warned oil-exporting countries against further price increases. It said they "would slow down or reverse the recovery and the development of nearly every nation represented" in the United Nations General Assembly.

The speech, written for Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and read to a special session of the General Assembly by Ambassador Daniel P. Moynihan because Kissinger was still in the Middle East, said the 1973-74 boosts in oil prices were "the most devastating blow to economic development in this decade ...".

It came "not from imperialist rapacity but from an arbitrary, monopolistic price increase by the cartel of oil exporters," the American statement said.

The U.S. proposal called for:

—A new financing agency within the International Monetary Fund (IMF) to sustain development programs of poor countries faced with falling export income by lending up to $10 billion at the rate of $2 billion a year.

—An international investment trust, managed by the World Bank's International Finance Corp., to encourage private investment in developing countries by insuring investors against losses up to $200 million against losses. "Industrialized, oil-producing and developing nations" would put up the money.

—An international fund for agricultural development to help poor countries improve the competitiveness of such products as timber, jute, cotton and natural rubber and to help countries become agriculturally self-sufficient.

Creation of international centers to help developing countries with industrial technology and the exchange of technical information.

—An International Energy Institute to coordinate and assist development of sources of energy other than oil.

The first reaction of many delegates was that the United States had come up with its most concrete and detailed policy statement in years on international economics.

Kissinger said the United States would recommend a consumer-producer forum for every key commodity to promote market stability and would support liberalization of the IMF's financing of buffer stocks to regulate price fluctuations.

He also announced the United States is prepared to support the U.N. effort to establish standards of conduct for international companies, many of which are controlled by Americans. He said transnational firms should obey local laws while host governments should not discriminate between foreign and domestic firms.

Algerian Foreign Minister Abdelaziz Bouteflika, the president of the 1974 assembly who was installed as president of the special session, defended the oil price hikes, saying they brought "several centuries of plunder to an end." He said the industrialized countries have a choice between agreeing to "radical reform of the world trade system" and confrontation.

Cleveland area still boasts one 'village' blacksmith

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Contrary to what Henry Wadsworth Longfellow said about the village blacksmith, there is no spreading chestnut tree at the corner of Washington and Winslow avenues NW in the Flats.

Nor, are there horses waiting to be shod.

But, there is a blacksmith's shop, Hugel's Blacksmith Shop, as a matter of fact.

Operated by Joseph M. Hugel of Parma since April, 1966, it is one of only five such establishments listed in the yellow pages of the Cleveland telephone directory.

Actually, Hugel, who has been a blacksmith for 30 years, has never made a horseshoe or shod a horse. Technically speaking, that type of blacksmith is known as a farrier.

Hugel specializes in the tooling end of the blacksmith's trade.

Hugel does not have large and sinewy hands. The muscles of his arms do not appear especially brawny or as strong as iron bands. Frankly, he is only five feet 10 and weighs 163 pounds.

But, his brow is covered with honest sweat and he sure takes a mighty swing with a heavy sledge when he straightens out a tap hole bar for an air gun on his anvil.

Hugel, 53, also sharpens bits for air hammers and reshapes screw drivers.

These and many other tasks he performs for such regular customers as Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., Alcoa, Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co., Atlas Car and Mfg. Co. and the Gorham-Lavelle Co.

Occasionally, he also extends some plow points, or cleans and rebuilds some disks for a farmer.

The latter end of his business he conducts mostly on a barter system, collecting old crocks, wine presses or cords of wood in payment for his services.

Hugel loves his work. But, he deplores the fact that the blacksmith's trade is a dying art.

"I had a couple of young fellows in here," he said. "They picked up a sledge, swung it a few times and discovered muscles they never knew they had. They wound up with sore muscles and never came back."

The roof leaks and he uses one of the crocks to catch the raindrops. Tools and equipment are scattered all over the floor.

County commissioners to hire full-time probation officer

The hiring of an adult probation officer and additional appropriations for the Fayette County Sheriff's department were discussed by the Fayette County Board of Commissioners Tuesday morning.

Commissioner Robert Mace was absent from the morning session due to a funeral.

The commissioners also announced that a permit is being issued by the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency for the Rattlesnake sewage treatment plant near the I-71 and U.S. 35 Interchange. Gary Glazer, Ohio EPA, told commissioners that due to recent improvements the plant, built in 1968, was now in full compliance with EPA regulations.

The plant has formerly been under the jurisdiction of the Fayette County Board of Health.

Common Pleas Court Judge Evelyn W. Coffman asked commissioners to approve the hiring of an adult probation officer. She said due to an increasing number of persons on probation, it had become necessary to hire a full time probation officer. Sheriff Don Thompson presently handles the duties as probation officer for Common Pleas Court.

Judge Coffman also requested office space and supplies for the probation office. Commissioners agreed with the need for a probation officer but delayed action on the request until Tuesday afternoon. No salary for the officer, to be appointed by Judge Coffman, was set.

Chief Deputy Robert McArthur submitted a request from the Sheriff's Department for additional monies for supplies. McArthur said the increasing price of feeding the prisoners and gasoline for the cruisers had depleted all of the $19,000 originally appropriated for supplies. He said the cost of gas and food alone was averaging nearly $1,600 per month. Cost of other supplies had increased accordingly he said.

Commissioners delayed action on the request until Tuesday afternoon.

Commissioners also voted to accept a bid from the Dayton Legal Blank Company for repair of books in the Auditor's office. The $3,990 bid included stripping and rebuilding of six volumes, rebinding 27 volumes, and canvas jackets for 24 volumes. The bid was the only one received by the deadline.

The Commissioners opened bids for the electrical rewiring of the Courthouse. All three bids received were rejected because specifications for the work are presently being redrawn. The work will be readvertised for bids.

The Board of Commissioners will meet with the Fayette County Board of Health at 1:30 p.m. today to discuss subdivision regulations. Also scheduled later this week is a meeting with Ohio Department of Transportation officials concerning the fate of several crossroads when U.S. 35 construction, presently in the planning stage, is completed. The meeting is set for 10 a.m. Thursday.

The R.C. Hunt Ditch will be viewed by commissioners at 1:30 p.m. Sept. 8.

Anderson school walkout averted

ANDERSON, Ind. (AP) — An 11th hour agreement between the Anderson Federation of Teachers and the school board averted a strike scheduled for today, the first day of school, board officials said.

An AFT spokesman said the teachers accepted a $700 dollar salary increase to begin in January. The teachers had sought an $800 dollar raise and the board had originally offered about $600, the spokesman said. The teachers had said they would not report for work unless they had a contract.

Meanwhile, a new round of negotiations is scheduled for Wednesday night in Indianapolis. The school board and the Indianapolis Education Association report they are at legal impasse as school opens today. However the IEA said it had urged its members to be in the classroom.

Nearly 100 other Hoosier school districts are without contracts.

Right to strike bill in trouble

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sponsors of legislation to allow strikes by government workers say they don't expect congressional approval for years because of public unhappiness with walkouts by police, garbagemen and teachers.

Chairman Charles H. Wilson, D-Calif., says he is not optimistic his House postal subcommittee's right-to-strike bill for postal workers will get out of the full Post Office Committee this year.

Chairman Frank Thompson Jr., D-N.J., said his House labor subcommittee will hold public hearings on bills to give state and local government employees the right to strike — but he made no promises even of subcommittee approval.

Wilson said public employe strikes

Des Moines derailment brings blasts

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Firefighters waited today for three railroad tank cars carrying propane and liquefied petroleum to burn themselves out following a derailment which led to a series of explosions.

Firemen waited about 300 yards from where a derailment Monday afternoon touched off a series of earth-shaking blasts that sent huge fireballs into the sky. Shock waves were heard 30 miles away.

At least six persons were injured. No deaths were reported.

The derailment and explosions occurred in an industrial park on the city's northeast side as 11 cars of a southbound Rock Island Lines train left the tracks as part of the train passed under a busy Interstate 35-80 bridge.

The Iowa Highway Patrol closed Interstate 35-80 in the area because they feared structural damage to the bridge. Traffic on the major east-west interstate was rerouted through the city.

Two square miles of factories, warehouses and homes were evacuated about an hour after the first fireball shot 1,000 feet into the air.

A railroad spokesman said five tank cars ruptured and burned.

like the police and firemen walkout in San Francisco this summer have aroused public opposition to right-to-strike bills that most congressmen are unwilling to buck.

"It would take a very brave soul to vote for this," Wilson said.

Both Wilson and Thompson contend that a national right-to-strike law would reduce the number of government workers strikes, rather than increase them, and predict Congress eventually will enact such a law.

Thompson said present wildcat strikes by government workers would be outlawed by a bill that would bring their unions under the National Labor Relations Act, thus giving them the same right as industrial unions to conduct sanctioned strikes.

"Rather than these hiccups strikes, there would be a definitive procedure they would go through," Thompson said.

Further, both Wilson and Thompson said bills before their committees would only permit government workers to strike as a last resort, requiring bargaining and mediation first.

"Very realistically I don't believe it will pass in the foreseeable future," Wilson said. "But I think it will come."

He said the bills are already losing votes of members of Congress who would have gone along with right-to-strike bills earlier but are now getting too close to 1976 elections to risk such a controversial stand.

The bill approved 6 to 3 by Wilson's panel April 10 would give postal employees the right to decide before contract talks start that they would strike in case of impasse rather than accept binding arbitration.

One of the two right-to-strike bills in Thompson's subcommittee would bring state and local government employees under the National Labor Relations Act, and another would set up a separate labor act for them.

Armed bandits hit Greyhound bus

DETROIT (AP) — "We have guns!" one of two holdup men aboard a bus shouted as the Greyhound rumbled down a highway.

"Put your heads down and do not look up. This is a holdup. If I see the whites of your eyes, I'll blow your heads off!"

Children screamed as the bandits shouted instructions and cursed some men, pistol-whipped others and stuffed money and jewelry into an attache case as most passengers sat with their eyes closed and their hands atop their heads.

One bandit took a young mother into the bus' restroom to undress her in a search for money. The woman's 3-year-old child stood outside, crying, "Mommy! Mommy!" The mother screamed, "I've got to get my baby!" She was released when the man found no money on her.

Authorities said Sunday night's robbery netted at least $15,000 in cash and jewelry from 42 victims while the bus from Chicago traveled between Ypsilanti, Mich., and Detroit. Its final destination was Montreal, Canada.

Donald Paul, 27, a passenger, said the bandits "knew exactly what they were going to do." He said one of the bandits put a gun to the driver's head.

The bus driver, 61-year-old William Gorshe, told passengers over the public address system, "Please cooperate so no one gets hurt."

When the bus reached Detroit, the bandits told the driver to turn off Interstate 94 onto another freeway. Soon after, the pair stopped the bus and ran up an embankment, jumped a fence and walked away.

Police believe the men escaped in a getaway car waiting nearby.

The FBI is investigating the incident.

the second Greyhound holdup in Michigan in eight days. Detroit police believe the same pair of bandits pulled a similar holdup on a Detroit-to-

Paducah, Ky., bus Aug. 24. Greyhound officials said there have been one or two other similar holdups, and that Sunday's loot was the largest.

Ecuador said calm after coup fails

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — Ecuador was reported calm again today following the failure of an attempt by the army chief of staff to overthrow President Guillermo Rodriguez Lara.

The leader of the attempted coup Monday, Gen. Raul Gonzalez Alvear, surrendered after 12 hours when the army, navy and air force failed to join the single army unit supporting him.

Gen. Rodriguez, who overthrew an elected president in 1972, said "the most rigorous weight of the law" would fall on Gen. Gonzalez and all those who supported him.

The president accused "irresponsible politicians" of instigating the rebellion. A dusk-to-dawn curfew was imposed on Quito and Guayaquil, the country's two chief cities; leading civilian opponents of the regime went into hiding, and government forces raided their homes.

About 80 troops and officers were reported under arrest. It was not known if any civilians also had been arrested.

Unofficial reports said 20 people were killed and about 50 wounded in the fighting around the presidential palace in downtown Quito.

Gen. Gonzalez laid siege to the palace shortly after midnight Sunday with tanks and about 100 troops of the Azuay armored regiment.

Meanwhile, Rodriguez escaped from the palace to Rio Bamba, 100 miles to the south, took command of the armored garrison there and started back to Quito with it. Army and navy units in Guayaquil, Ecuador's chief port on the Pacific coast, proclaimed their loyalty to the president.

Rodriguez re-entered Quito at the head of a column of six tanks and some 200 other army vehicles. But the rebels had already surrendered to the Venecedores Regiment, which remained loyal to the government, surrounded the palace and prepared to attack.

It was Latin America's second uprising in four days. Last Friday, Peru's military president, Juan Velasco Alvarado, was ousted by Gen.

Francisco Morales Bermudez.

Right to strike bill in trouble

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sponsors of legislation to allow strikes by government workers say they don't expect congressional approval for years because of public unhappiness with walkouts by police, garbage men and teachers.

Chairman Charles H. Wilson, D-Calif., says he is not optimistic his House postal subcommittee's right-to-strike bill for postal workers will get out of the full Post Office Committee this year.

Chairman Frank Thompson Jr., D-N.J., said his House labor subcommittee will hold public hearings on bills to give state and local government employees the right to strike — but he made no promises even of subcommittee approval.

Des Moines derailment brings blasts

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Firefighters waited today for three railroad tank cars carrying propane and liquefied petroleum to burn themselves out following a derailment which led to a series of explosions.

Firemen waited about 300 yards from where a derailment Monday afternoon touched off a series of earth-shaking blasts that sent huge fireballs into the sky. Shock waves were heard 30 miles away.

At least six persons were injured. No deaths were reported.

The derailment and explosions occurred in an industrial park on the city's northeast side as 11 cars of a southbound Rock Island Lines train left the tracks as part of the train passed under a busy Interstate 35-80 bridge.

The Iowa Highway Patrol closed Interstate 35-80 in the area because they feared structural damage to the bridge. Traffic on the major east-west interstate was rerouted through the city.

Two square miles of factories, warehouses and homes were evacuated about an hour after the first fireball shot 1,000 feet into the air.

A railroad spokesman said five tank cars ruptured and burned.

like the police and firemen walkout in San Francisco this summer have aroused public opposition to right-to-strike bills that most congressmen are unwilling to buck.

"It would take a very brave soul to vote for this," Wilson said.

Both Wilson and Thompson contend that a national right-to-strike law would reduce the number of government workers strikes, rather than increase them, and predict Congress eventually will enact such a law.

Thompson said present wildcat strikes by government workers would be outlawed by a bill that would bring their unions under the National Labor Relations Act, thus giving them the same right as industrial unions to conduct sanctioned strikes.

"Rather than these hiccups strikes, there would be a definitive procedure they would go through," Thompson said.

Further, both Wilson and Thompson said bills before their committees would only permit government workers to strike as a last resort, requiring bargaining and mediation first.

"Very realistically I don't believe it will pass in the foreseeable future," Wilson said. "But I think it will come."

He said the bills are already losing votes of members of Congress who would have gone along with right-to-strike bills earlier but are now getting too close to 1976 elections to risk such a controversial stand.

Woman aids black lung victims

By ELAINE MORRISSEY

Dayton Daily News

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—In Peggy Smith's hand was Clarence Inman's file folder, a halfinch thick with claim forms, medical statements and correspondence.

For four years, Inman, who worked for 10 years in a Tennessee coal mine, had been trying to qualify for black lung benefits from the federal government.

Inman, his voice squeaky shrill "because of nerves," told of leaving the mines in 1953 to go to work in a Dayton foundry. At 43, he had to be a full-time volunteer. She and Kate Curry, black lung coordinator, drafted a 12-page questionnaire for the former miners to fill out.

"Most of them average about a fifth grade education, so this form is a real tough chore for them," said Mrs. Smith. "But, when they get it filled in, we have all the information we need to start sending out letters to mining companies, doctors, relatives and friends."

The ex-miners and their families, usually suspicious of outsiders and do-gooders, felt comfortable with Mrs. King. Soon, she was a full-time volunteer. She and Kate Curry, black lung coordinator, drafted a 12-page questionnaire for the former miners to fill out.

"There's so much to learn," she said. "I even dream of it."

Mrs. Smith knew she had to learn an awful lot in a hurry in order to advise the men and women who wanted help.

She accompanies an ex-miner to his hearing before the Social Security as lay advocate. Miners and ex-miners are concerned that present approvals of benefits are only about 7 per cent.

But, if turned down, Mrs. Smith patiently assembles new evidence for a new hearing.

New storm hammers Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — City and state officials say that weekend storm damage to Cleveland will strengthen the city's chances of being designated a disaster area by the federal government.

Members of the Ohio Disaster Services Administration have been asked to return to the city this week to inspect damage by a storm Sunday that caused flooding throughout the city and evacuation of residents on the east side.

Agency representatives toured the city last week after an Aug. 24 storm caused widespread damage and resulted in the loss of four lives.

Thomas J. Moyer, executive assistant to Gov. James A. Rhodes, said that the repetition of heavy rains has increased the city's chances of being declared a disaster area.

The city asked to be declared a disaster area after the Aug. 24 storm which city officials estimated caused up to $15 million in property damages. State officials estimated damage at a lower figure and the city's request for federal aid is still pending.

Raymond Kudukis, city utilities director, said the most recent storm caused between $4 to $5 million in damage to public property and perhaps an additional $1 million to private property. He said the most recent damage will be used to update the city's request for aid.

The hardest hit area was an eastside neighborhood flooded when a creek in Euclid overflowed its banks and a bridge on the creek became clogged with debris.

Open air services concluded Sunday

The last of this year's open air services sponsored by the Churches of Christ and Christian churches of Fayette County were held Sunday night.

The services have been held in the Miami Trace football stadium, but Sunday's service was moved into the school auditorium due to the threatening weather. There were 281 persons in attendance for this final service.

The First Christian Church was in charge of this service and their choir presented special music, including "The Savior Is Waiting." The speaker for the evening was Marshall Leggett, minister of the Broadway Christian Church of Lexington, Ky.

Showers dampen some areas

By The Associated Press

Lingering showers dampened scattered spots across the nation Monday night and early today, while temperatures in the North dipped into the 40s.

Cloudy skies stretched from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic Seaboard, and some thundershowers were reported along the coast from New England to North Carolina.

Gainesville, Fla., was drenched with nearly three inches of rain overnight, and the defunct Hurricane Caroline left a few thunderstorms still churning in extreme southern Texas.

Padres edge Cincinnati; win

By BILL VALE
Associated Press Writer

CINCINNATI (AP) — Hat on backwards and grinning ear-to-ear, 25-year-old lefthander Randy Jones seemed more excited about his new screw ball than defeating the National League West Division-leading Cincinnati Reds 2-1.

"My screw ball was really going in on those righthand hitters," said the slim blond hurler, "and my sinker balls were really holding them down."

Jones admitted he was tiring late in the contest, particularly in the seventh

"I get psyched up when we play a good team. I hope this is going to be a streak for me," Winfield said.

He singled in the second, stole second base and scored on Dave Roberts' single. His double off the left field wall resulted in the second score in the fifth inning when John Grubb crashed a single off reliever Pedro Borbon's foot.

Tom Seaver, Bob Gibson and Randy Jones: three outstanding pitchers at contrasting points in their careers.

Jones is at the beginning, on the rise, just starting to realize the wonders he is capable of working; Seaver is at the peak, a star shining bright; Gibson is nearing the conclusion he who has been to the top and still retains a touch of the class which carried him to greatness.

All three had big days Monday:

—Seaver blanked the Pittsburgh Pirates on four hits, struck out 10 and set a major league record with his eighth consecutive season with 200 or more strikeouts in pitching the New York Mets to a 3-0 triumph, becoming the first 20-game winner in the National League.

—Gibson, who will be retiring at the end of this season at age 39, was honored by a sellout crowd at Busch Stadium in St. Louis on "Bob Gibson Day" and heard salutes from Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and Cards chairman August A. Busch and a telegram praising his career from President Ford.

—Jones scattered nine hits and raised his record to 18-9 by hurling the San Diego Padres to a 2-1 decision over the Cincinnati Reds.

Elsewhere in the National League, Philadelphia nipped Philadelphia 6-5, Los Angeles beat San Francisco 3-1 and Houston topped Atlanta 5-3.

Seaver needed just 95 pitches — "maybe an all-time low for me" — to stop the hard-hitting Pirates and raise his record to 20-7, joining Baltimore's Jim Palmer with 20 wins. The shutout lowered his earned run average to 2.07, best among major league starting pitchers.

When Seaver blazed a fastball past Manny Sanguillen in the seventh inning it marked the eighth consecutive year he has fanned 200 or more batters, a feat never before accomplished. Ruben Waddell and Walter Johnson had seven consecutive 200-plus years.

The victory, Seaver's sixth in a row, lifted the Mets to within four games of the first-place Pirates in the four-team NL East dogfight. St. Louis is three games out, the Phils tied with the Mets at four.

and eighth when Cincinnati threats sputtered.

"That's where all that running paid off," said Jones. He said he runs 70-yard sprints daily "to use my whole body, not just my pitching arm. I really work at it."

Jones, 18-8 was 8-22 last season, and is making a believer out of Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson.

"Well, he's a pretty good pitcher," Anderson allowed. "He's won 18 games hasn't he," Anderson added, noting he had been critical of Jones in the past.

"We had our chances," said Anderson.

"He just keeps winning," said San Diego Manager John McNamara, adding that Jones is aware of criticism in other cities "but it comes only after he's beaten them."

Jones has now beaten every National League team except Montreal and Chicago, and has won eight of his last ten games.

Dave Winfield had three hits in the game and scored both San Diego runs.

Royals, White Sox split twinbill

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

The Kansas City Royals lost two players Monday ... and won a ballgame.

First, starting pitcher Nelson Briles had to leave after blanking the Chicago White Sox for three innings when his knee began acting up. Doug Bird took over and yielded one run and six hits the rest of the way.

However, Bird didn't become a winner until Hal McRae hurt his rib cage fouling off a pitch in the eighth inning of a 1-1 deadlock. Harmon Killebrew pinch hit and creamed a 2-2 pitch from Claude Osteen into the left field seats for his 571st career homer and the Royals' first in eight games.

The two-run shot was Killebrew's 12th of the season and enabled the Royals to win 3-1 and split their Labor Day doubleheader. But the Royals dropped the opener 10-8 and, coupled with Oakland's 6-3 triumph over California, left Kansas City eight games behind the A's in the American League's West Division.

The New York Yankees turned back Boston 4-2, chopping the Red Sox' lead in the AL East to 5½ games over the idle Baltimore Orioles, who were rained out of a doubleheader against Cleveland. Elsewhere, the Minnesota Twins beat the Texas Rangers 5-3 and the Detroit Tigers edged the Milwaukee Brewers 5-4.

Miss Overton, all dolled up in green and gold brocade for a center court crowd of 8,187 Monday night, looked as though she were having anything but fun. She won only 16 points, five of them in the first set, in Miss Evert's 6-0, 6-1 romp into the quarter-finals.

In the opener, Chicago trailed KC's Steve Busby 4-0 after 1½ innings but Bill Melton cracked a three-run homer to cap a five-run third inning and Jorge Orta drove in three runs on three hits.

A's 6, Angels 3

Billy Williams and Reggie Jackson slammed two-run homers as Oakland rallied from a 3-1 first-inning deficit to beat the Angels. Jackson drove in a third run with a double while Vida Blue finished with a fourhitter for his 18th victory.

Yankees 4, Red Sox 2

Rick Dempsey, Rick Bladt and Fred Stanley, the tail end of the New York batting order, keyed the Yankees' 14-hit attack against Roger Moret and Dick Pole. Doc Medich blanked the Red Sox for six innings, survived a Boston rally in the seventh and needed help from Tippy Martinez in the eighth. Stanley collected three hits while Dempsey, Bladt, Walt Williams and Roy White had two apiece and Bladt, Stanley, Dempsey and Sandy Alomar delivered run-scoring hits.

Twins 5, Rangers 4

Phil Roof hit a solo home run and a two-run single to lead the Twins over the Rangers and Ferguson Jenkins. Roof tied the score 1-1 with his sixth homer of the year. The Twins took a 2-1 lead in the fifth on a single by Lyman Bostock, an error and a single by Rod Carew and chased Jenkins with three runs in the sixth after the Rangers mound ace bobbled a grounder to start the inning.

Tigers 5, Brewers 4

Bill Freehan poked a 3-0 pitch for a run-scoring single to cap a four-run rally against four Milwaukee pitchers in the seventh inning.

"It's like giving the title to Chris.

"I go out there and have fun you gotta love it. But Chris is just so steady, mentally tough on clay, that's all."

Miss Evert is such an overwhelming favorite to win the U.S. Open Tennis Championships that, if this were Wimbledon, no one would make book on her. She hasn't lost on clay since Evonne Goolagong beat her 6-2, 7-5 in the final of the Western Clay Courts in Cincinnati in 1973.

Miss Overton, all dolled up in green and gold brocade for a center court crowd of 8,187 Monday night, looked as though she were having anything but fun. She won only 16 points, five of them in the first set, in Miss Evert's 6-0, 6-1 romp into the quarter-finals.

In a match of unseeded players, Andrew Pattison, 26, of Rhodesia ousted 35-year-old Bob Hewitt of South Africa 6-4, 6-2, 1-6, 6-2.

The two closest teams to the winners were Glen Helmick, Steve Miller, Herbert Sollars and Donald Crabtree, and Mark Schaper, Dr. J.H. Persinger, Daryl Stewart and Paul Maughmer. Both finished second with 121's.

Mourning Dove fight

remains up in air

Ohio's fledgling mourning dove season enters its second day today caught in a crossfire of legal moves delayed by the Labor Day holiday.

State officials were waiting for official notification of a writ against the season obtained Sunday night by a group of preservationists who lost earlier court battles to outlaw the dove hunting.

The writ was issued by Associate Supreme Court Justice Frank Celebrezze against the state division of wildlife, but delivery of the notification apparently was delayed by the holiday.

Meanwhile, the first season in Ohio in 60 years opened on schedule Monday, because state officials said they had no authority to cancel it.

Cards 6, Cubs 3

Lou Brock drilled three singles, stole three bases and scored twice to pace the Cards' victory. He now has 52 steals, the 11th straight year he has had 50 or more.

But the day belonged to Gibson, whose uniform was retired in pre-game ceremonies.

"It's both a sad day and a proud day," said Busch. "A sad day because it marks the end of one of the greatest baseball careers of all time. But it's a proud day to say, 'Bob Gibson, you have done a great job.'"

Expos 6, Phils 5

Tim Foli drilled a tie-breaking double with two out in the ninth inning and scored the winning tally on a single by relief pitcher Dale Murray as the Expos handed Philadelphia its third loss in a row in a nationally televised game.

Dodgers 3, Giants 1

Right-hander Burt Hooton, 14-9, stopped the Giants on six hits for his eighth consecutive victory. Lee Lacy drove in a pair of runs and scored the other for Los Angeles.

Astros 5, Braves 3

Cesar Cedeno's two-run double in the fourth inning helped Houston to victory as starter Doug Konieczny, 6-12, gained his first victory since July 30 with relief help from Dave Roberts and Joe Niekro.

County gridders eye opening tilts

Both county football squads fared well in their final preseason scrimmage over the weekend and they are now preparing for their season openers this Friday night.

The Washington C.H. Blue Lions scored three times against West Jefferson Friday night and Coach Maurice Pfeifer said his squad looked good but weren't as consistent as he would like.

The Lions scored on two passes and a run by Mark Fisher. Senior quarterback Greg Marti tossed screen to David Thompson for the first score and Mark Heiny tossed a touchdown pass to Mark Lamberson for the other.

Kevin Pfeifer kicked two extra points and the coaching staff will use the offensive tackle for that purpose when the season starts.

Pfeifer reports that the defense played aggressively and looked good against an inexperienced West Jeff squad.

Washington C.H. kicks off the season Friday night against new league foe Madison Plains at London.

Opening lead - jack of clubs.

It is not uncommon for declarer to be faced with a situation where he can assure the contract by playing correctly — but would jeopardize the contract by playing incorrectly.

Take this deal where South wins the club lead with the king and returns the queen of diamonds. If West knows his way around a bridge table, he ducks and allows declarer to win the trick. (If West takes the queen, South makes two diamond tricks and the contract.)

When the queen holds, South plays another diamond and West follows low again. Declarer now has a tough decision to make because he does not know where the ace and jack are located. If he guesses wrong, he goes down.

Presenting declarers with such guesses is part of the strategy of defense, and any defender who regularly misses such opportunities is selling himself short.

Actually, if declarer plays the hand correctly, he makes the contract regardless of how the diamonds are divided. All he has to do is lead the four of diamonds to dummy's eight at trick two. This guarantees at least two diamond tricks against any lie of the cards.

If the eight wins, a low diamond to the queen produces a second diamond trick. If the eight loses to the jack, South later overtakes his queen with the king to establish two diamond tricks. Finally, if the eight forces the ace, South once again has two diamond tricks.

All roads lead to Rome — provided South has the presence of mind to play the diamond four at trick two. This forecloses and eliminates all chance of going wrong later in the play.

Physical Disease and Anxiety

It is a well-established fact that doctors rarely see patients who, in addition to their physical symptoms, do not also have some anxiety.

The combination of fear and illness can be debilitating. Far too often the anxieties are far more destructive than the diseases that bring patients to the doctor's office.

It is part of the practice of medicine to recognize these anxieties and to stimulate patients to reveal them.

Physicians very often can help patients cope with their jobs and family stress. Sometimes readjustment of these patterns may be all that is needed to realign both the physical and the emotional aspects of a person's life.

When patients are given a better insight into their own stresses and how to deal with them, there comes relief from anxiety, greater personal tranquility and, almost always, greater productivity.

No one aware of emotional stress should be guarded in his relationship with his doctors and pretend to be free of it. The expression of anxiety is the expression of truth. This opens new horizons for personal happiness and emancipation from the burden of fear.

There are others, however, who are unable to be serviceable to themselves, to their families and to the community and yet they refuse to acknowledge their distressing anxieties.

The psychological and psychosomatic effects of stress within the job or within the home can definitely lead to special illnesses.

It has definitely been established that people in stressful occupations undoubtedly have a tendency towards high blood pressure, heart disease and stomach ulcers.

It is believed that job stress may produce chemical changes that lay the groundwork for these diseases.

IN FOCUS
by Charlie Pensyl

The more one knows about photography the more fun it is. Like moving in for close-ups of flowers, insects, small parts of equipment, all sorts of close-up work. And the big area of telephoto shooting like wild animals, birds, and candid shots of people. Then there's the wonderful world of wide-angle shooting such as the stuff that is the fad among today's photo-journalists. When you can handle all these areas of camera use you are set to have a ball with your camera.

We try to cover all these areas at CKFN, and then go the next step for better pix. Like one of the first rules of good photography is KEEP IT SIMPLE. Most people's pix get all goofed up with lots of stuff in the foreground and background that adds nothing to the idea the picture is trying to convey. I once heard a photographer say he carried two "background cleaners" in his station wagon at all times: a blanket to lay on to shoot up and use the sky as background, and a step ladder to get high enough to use the ground as a background. No horizons in his shots. He had a point.

CKFN sessions start the second week in September, and this series will take up everything from making color prints from your slides to the simple ABC's of camera work. Interested? Drop in and ask about our sessions.

There is no shame, living as we do in this age of anxiety, to have neurotic tendencies. Most people are able to cope with their problems, produce a good day's work and carry on social and family obligations.

There are others, however, who are unable to be serviceable to themselves, to their families and to the community and yet they refuse to acknowledge their distressing anxieties.

Apple crop exceptional; see price dip

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

A bumper crop of apples is ripening in orchards across the nation and the large supplies should mean lower retail prices for the fruit through the coming year.

The Agricultural Marketing Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture predicted that this year's apple crop will be almost 174 million 42-pound boxes, an increase of 13 per cent over last year.

For pork, the retail price went from $1.47 per pound to $1.49, as the farm value rose 2.9 cents to $1.03 and the wholesale price zipped up 7.8 cents to $1.20.

For the week of Aug. 23, farm and carcass values for beef edged up a little, while they slipped a little for pork, but retail price averages were not available.

"This year it just seems everyone had good weather," a USDA spokesman said.

Authorities in the state of Washington, the country's top producer, expect a fresh apple crop 19 per cent larger than last year's.

growers in New York State, the second largest producer, say they should harvest their biggest crop in half a century.

James Garlik, assistant commissioner of the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets, said more of the 1975 crop than usual would probably be sold for eating fresh, because many of the big apple processors have supplies left from last year.

"The price of apples for the consumer is going down some and the quality is going to be up," Garlik said.

The Washington State Apple Commission said the average price of a bushel of apples (equal to 42 pounds) was $7.50 at the wholesale level for fruit from the 1974-75 crop. They expect the average wholesale price for the 1975-76 crop to be about $6 a bushel, a drop of 20 per cent.

That does not necessarily mean a 20 per cent drop in the price consumers pay, however. Transportation, packaging, labor and storage costs all add to the bill. USDA figures show that in the fourth quarter of 1974, apples were selling at about 31 cents a pound. The farm value was a little more than a dime.

Sign language courses set

The president of DEAF, Inc., a Washington C.H.-based organization to assist those with hearing handicaps, will teach two public courses in manual communications which begin this month.

Miss Janet Duvall, 890 Davis Court, will instruct the classes which are being held at the South Central Ohio Speech and Hearing Center in Chillicothe. The classes will meet each Monday night for 10 weeks beginning Sept. 8.

The cost of each program will be minimal. Participants will be asked to pay only for the cost of reproduction of course materials.

One course will be geared to those who have had no experience in manual communications. The other will be at the intermediate level for those who have already had some experience in sign language.

Richard Ries, director of the speech and hearing center, said classes will be limited in size. "When the manual communications courses were offered the last time, there were some people who expressed interest but because of class size were unable to take them," he said.

Those who are interested in registering should call the center at 1-773-2679 as soon as possible.

Man keeps big bribe for himself

WASHINGTON (AP) — A prominent Arab financier contends he prevented the Northrop Corp., a major U.S. military contractor, from bribing Saudi Arabia's air force chief by keeping the money for himself, The Washington Post has reported.

"I stopped a bribe. I put it in my pocket," Adnan Khashoggi was quoted as saying in a Beirut interview published in the Post's Tuesday editions.

Northrop last June gave Senate investigators documents that accused Khashoggi of demanding a $250,000 payoff for Gen. Hashim M. Hashim, now retired.

But Khashoggi told the newspaper that it was Northrop, not he, who "cooked up" the idea of purchasing the general's cooperation in approving arms contracts for the American firm in 1971.

Khashoggi said he kept the payoff money because he wanted Northrop to keep from "putting themselves in a bad position" by doing something "stupid."

And, he reportedly added with a smile: "I didn't think the general had earned it."

Data doesn't fool consumers

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The consumer has good reason to rely on his own observations about the economy instead of listening to the politically tainted pronouncements of some government officials.

In recent weeks the views out of Washington have sometimes been a bit contradictory, as if whoever was supposed to be orchestrating the administration view was off on vacation.

Or probably it is because some officials have doubts about the long proclaimed emergence from recession, or doubts at least regarding the strength of the recovery that has been so widely forecast.

When jobless figures for July showed a drop from those of June the administration was quick to point out that this was further evidence that its policy was working. Now it has a different interpretation.

Reporting on the views of Alan Greenspan, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, Ron Nessen said those July figures might have overstated things, that they might have been a "statistical quirk."

Americans shouldn't be surprised, the President's press secretary seemed to suggest, if the August jobless rate rose above July's 8.4 per cent level. Americans might not be surprised about a rise, but they are becoming dismayed by the changing views.

The government relies on its index of leading indicators to peer into the future, and it suggests that the public rely on it also. That index rose in July for the fifth straight month, indicating economic recovery.

However, Rogers C.B. Morton, the commerce secretary, seems to have said that we shouldn't rely too heavily on that official government index. "We cannot expect that every month will show such a dramatic increase," he said.

Who and what do you believe — the administration's semi-official line that the economy is recovering? Or the view of Asst. Treasury Secretary Sidney Jones that the economy over the next few months could be turbulent?

Is Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz correct in saying that the sale of grains to the Soviets will raise domestic food prices 1.5 per cent? Or is Arthur F. Burns, Federal Reserve chairman, who expects a rise of at least 2 per cent?

What is the public supposed to think when Housing Secretary Carla Hills tells the Congressional Joint Economic Committee that in the seriously depressed housing industry "all sectors seem to be rebounding."

The rebound that Mrs. Hills alluded to remained undiscovered by industry officials. Builders were as mystified as they were surprised by her statement.

Consumers are forced by this confusing news to make their own assessments.

Interviews by consumer researchers show that ordinary families discount much of what they hear out of Washington. They rely on their own studies, conducted in a market place where pennies count and hoopla doesn't.

Those same interviews show conclusively that the public won't be propagandized. They refuse to fool themselves when their own security is at stake and they resist attempts by others to do so.

Red meat output below last year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Commercial production of red meat in July dropped 6 per cent below the year before but was 7 per cent above two years ago, when the meat business was under federal price controls and faced with some consumer boycotts, Agriculture Department reports show.

Pork production, however, showed a 20 per cent drop from July 1974 to a level 8 per cent below July 1973.

An explosion in pork and beef prices that began in late May and ended for beef in early July, and pork last week has been cited, together with surges in the prices of fresh fruits and vegetables, for the retail food price increases in June of 1.5 per cent and July of 1.7 per cent, at a seasonally adjusted annual rate.

Broken wrists hamper mayor

LOVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Mayor William Phillips recently had to perform a wedding ceremony with the help of someone who stood ready to turn the pages.

Both of the mayor's arms were in casts because of wrists broken in a fall in her living room. In June, the mayor had one leg in a cast because of a broken ankle. That injury occurred Friday, June 13 when the mayor missed a step and fell at Ohio State University.

Before that, the mayor tripped in a Milford restaurant and broke the other ankle.
